WHO'S WHO

in E&P A&D 2019

Directory Assistance Appreciated

After a withering stretch of A&D activity to start 2019, it's rewarding to return to this directory and hear from the best deal makers in the industry.

Thanks to the rapid descent of oil prices to end 2018, first-quarter 2019 bottomed out with the lowest values in more than a decade. That's "before the onset of the shale revolution and in the midst of the financial crisis," according to a May Raymond James report.

The second quarter bounced back with Occidental Petroleum Corp.'s pending merger with Anadarko Petroleum Corp. in a deal valued at $57 billion. The Haynesville and the Midcontinent have also seen surprisingly large mergers. With consolidation talk already in the air, small and midsize deals have slowly gained traction.

This directory is intended to give buyers and sellers an assist as they close out 2019. Each year, this publication is a massive task that involves artists, copy editors and the help of every single person listed in the pages that follow.

Some go the extra mile. A CEO sent in an editor's choice of two photos, one of which was labeled "alternative" and looked suspiciously like Brad Pitt.

Another CEO said that, contrary to our records, she was pretty sure her photo was already in Hart Energy's archives since "it was on the cover of last year's copy." She sent another photo anyway.

And it's gratifying to read a message from a business development vice president who said, "the A&D listing is always a great reference tool and one that has been very helpful in the past."

That's what it's intended to be. The long-running Who's Who in E&P A&D continues to feature the women and men at the center of the deal universe and an insider's preview of what E&Ps are buying and selling.

For 2019, Oil and Gas Investor puts in your hands the definitive tool for connecting with people at large independents, major oil companies and the newest start-ups.

As in years past, this edition provides a direct line of contact to the A&D point person for major oil companies such as Shell Exploration Co., major private companies such as FourPoint Energy and newer private-equity-backed upstream companies.

Foremost, the Who's Who in E&P A&D is a roadmap for you and your colleagues. It contains roughly 400 A&D professionals representing hundreds of companies. Inside are the presidents, CEOs, founders, and land and acquisitions managers who are the gatekeepers to possible sales, acquisitions and trades.

Many have moved to new companies, but with your help, we've managed to track them down. So, thank you for another year of assistance and willingness to participate. This directory would not exist without it.

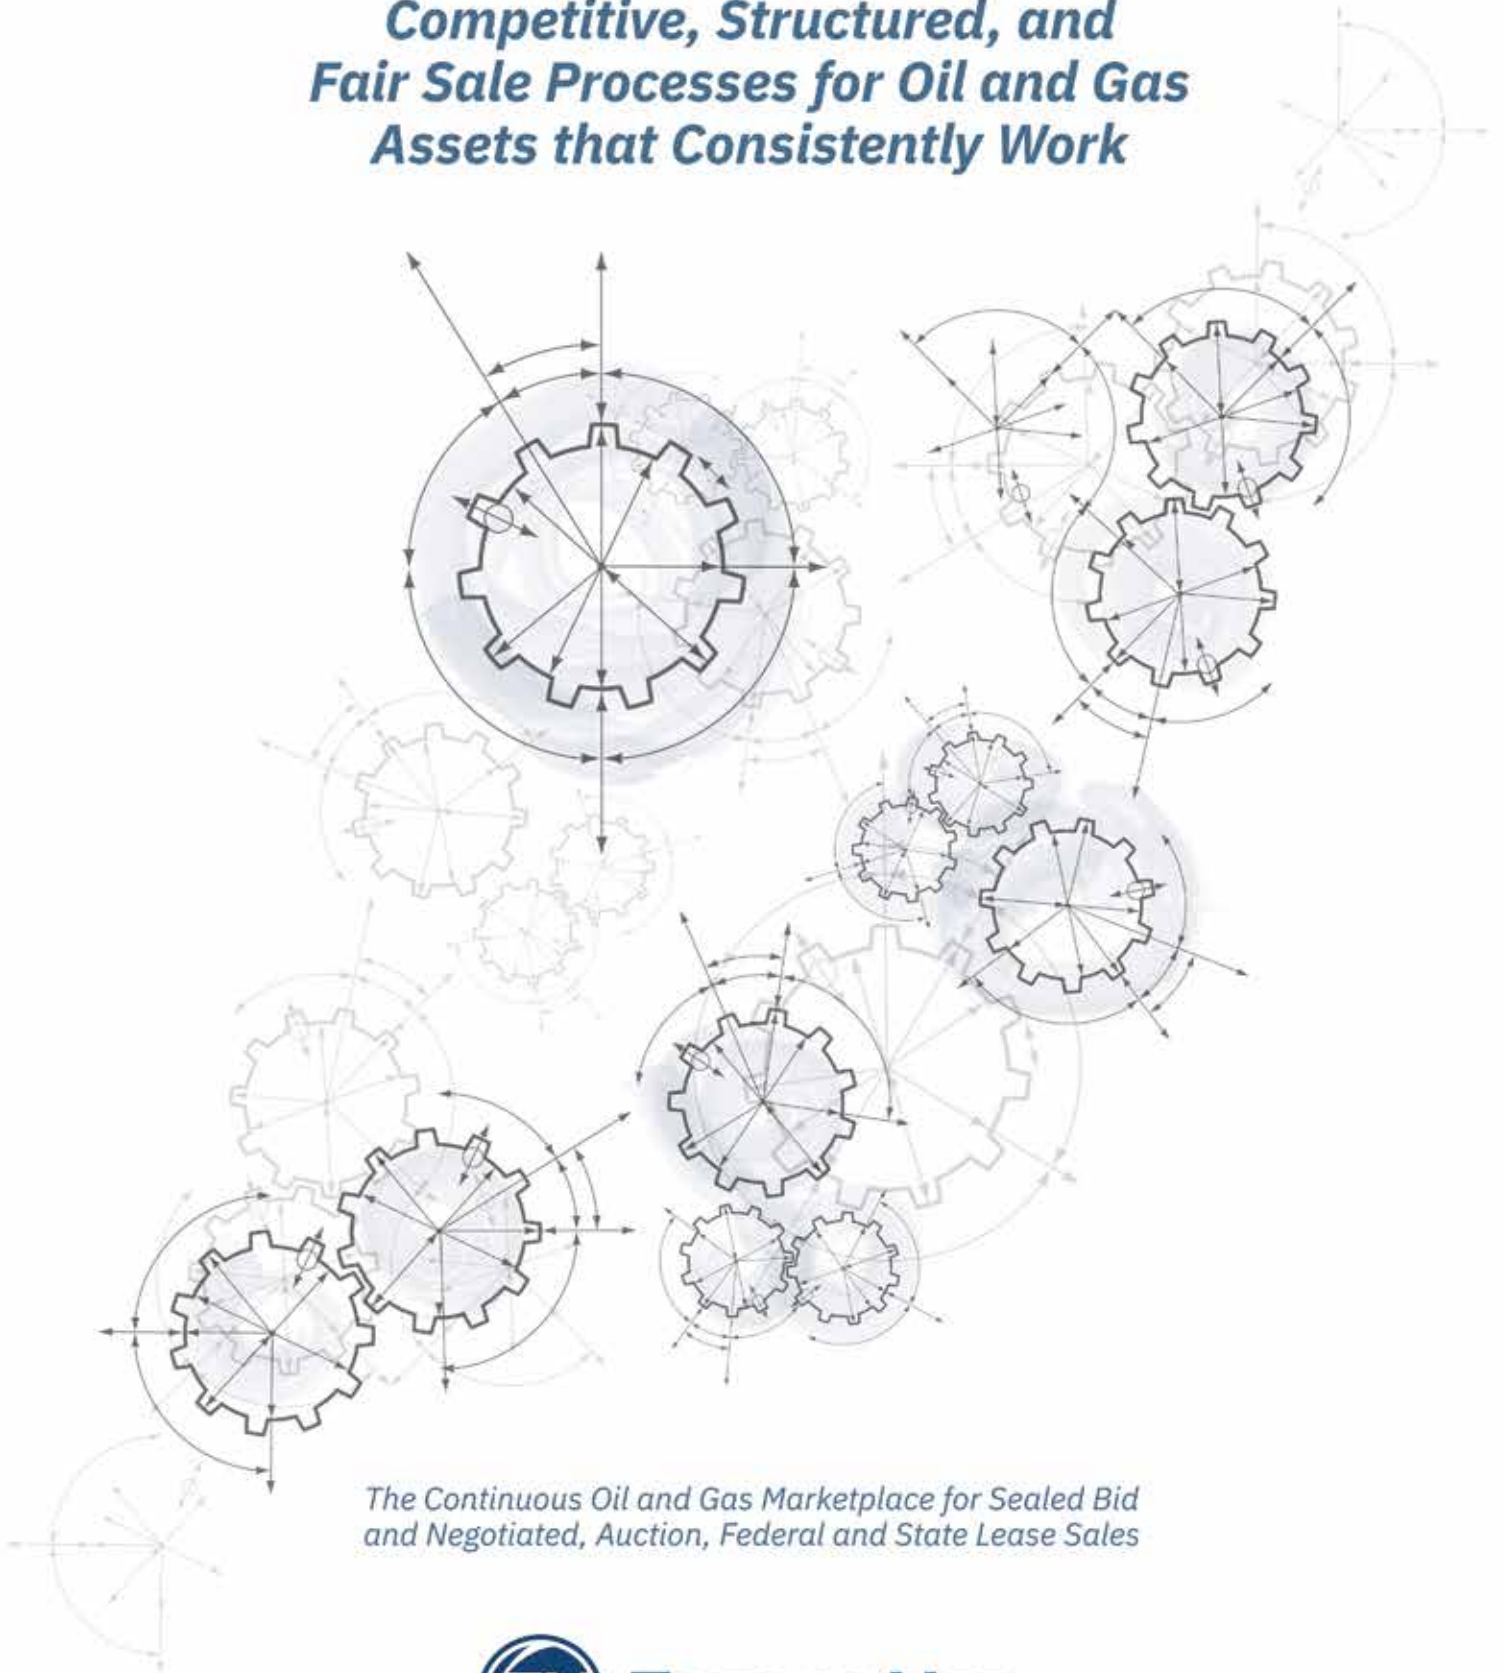

Please stay in touch and let us know if your information should change. Our online searchable database is updated through the year and allows visitors to find current information.

As always, may you have good fortune and great deals.

Where Credit Is Due:

How to Comply With Copyright Laws

We work hard to make Oil and Gas Investor the best source of petroleum investment information available. Readers rely on it for investment decisions because they respect our independence and objectivity. We need to control the use of our material to keep the trust of our readers.

Copyright laws prohibit the copying of any material—and that includes photocopies—in this magazine without the permission of the publisher.

If you want to make one photocopy of an article to send to a friend, that's okay. Just be sure to give us credit on the copy. But, if you want a lot of copies of an article, you need to get clearance from us first. Then you can make all the copies you need without worrying about copyright infringement.

Easier still, ask us about reprints. The articles you want can be reprinted on the same high-quality stock as the magazine. You get first-class reprints to send to investors or prospects.

For more information about reprints, copies and copyrights, contact Neresa Williamson at (713) 260-4649.
